

When after gaining knowledge on how to create a website in w3school, the first thing pops up in my mind of my future website project will be a fan page of my Idol in formula 1 racing sport named “Max Verstappen”. The basic tutorials from w3school.com and some contents in youtube.com of web developing are the reasons that inspires me to explore and learn more about web developing.

So my goals and plans for my website are simple. A fan page of my idol “Max Verstappen” and it will contain of personal information of my topic which is my idol “Max Verstappen” and it will tackle about his history, career, and his biography. I’ve decided to create this kind of website of him because I’m not just a fan of him but a dreamer of becoming like him, a racer, speed lover, loves redbull, and more. I’ve also decided that I’ll only explore and learn more of using html and css file for my website to minimize the difficulties. Achieving my goals and plan for my website will boost my confidence to explore more and more for web developing someday.
